AGC EDUCATION AND RESEARCH FOUNDATION PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To the AGC of America Family:

As I assume my new role as President of the AGC Foundation, I would like to thank Jack Kelley for his past two years of outstanding leadership for the Foundation. Jack's emphasis on growing the Foundation, in terms of program and financial development, helped make 2013 another exciting and productive year for us. Included among our accomplishments are:

- Completing two more faculty internships in 2013 and approving an additional four for the summer of 2014. Justin Reginato, CSU Sacramento, worked with Swinerton, Inc. and Dr. Hisham Said, Santa Clara University, with Blach Construction in 2013, with rave reviews from their contractor sponsors. In 2014 we look forward to internships involving these faculty members and AGC contractors:
  - Amr Kandil, Purdue University, Bowen Engineering
  - Tarek Mahfouz, Ball State University, Barton Malow
  - Sinem Mallaoglu, Michigan State University, Granger Construction
  - Patrick Suerrmann, US Air Force Academy, Swinerton Builders
- Publishing the Foundation's first case study, prepared by a team from the University of Northern Kentucky and Turner Construction, "Ethics in Project Planning and Execution."
- We are announcing at the 95th AGC convention the award of 133 scholarships for the 2014-15 academic year. The continuing generosity of our long-time donors and the establishment of new endowments make it possible to help these young people with the high costs of their college educations.
- We present awards this year to the winner of the James L. Allhands Essay Competition, Jason Kyle Bailey from Texas

A&M University, and the 2014 Outstanding Educator, Dr. Brad Benhart of Purdue University. The submissions for these awards just keep getting better, and the winners are indeed deserving of honor.

We will continue to emphasize building the Foundation's endowment to meet the significant need of students for assistance in their education funding. One of last year's recipients, Adam Leon of California State University, Sacramento, tells us that the additional funds provided by the Foundation made the difference in his ability to work in the industry while finishing school. The students' needs vary, some requiring the funds to meet their tuition needs and others to enrich their learning experience.

The Foundation's work continues to promote the cultivation of our future leaders and to recognize outstanding work in the field of their education. That is its mission. We are grateful for the continued and significant financial support by AGC members and firms, the Consulting Constructors Council and AGC of America that allows us to do that. We extend a special thanks to Dan Fordice for establishing the Kirk Fordice Memorial Scholarship Fund this year, as well as Al and Gracie Landes for their second endowed fund with the Foundation, the Al and Gracie Landes Scholarship Fund.

Finally, we extend our appreciation to departing director John Schaufelberger from the University of Washington, whose work on the AGC Foundation/ASC committee that has developed our faculty internship and case study initiatives has been an example of true leadership. We are happy to note that he will continue to be involved in the committee but we will miss his valuable contribution as a director.

There are numerous ways to become involved in the Foundation's work—join us. Ask one of our board members or staff director Melinda Patrician how you can help. And thanks again for your support.

Norman J. Walton
President

RESEARCH AND EDUCATION INITIATIVES

FACULTY INTERNSHIP INITIATIVE HITS ITS PACE

“This program is a slam-dunk!” –Justin Reginato, associate professor at California State University, Sacramento Construction Management and AGC Education and Research Foundation Faculty Intern with Swinerton Construction, summer of 2013.

estimator, said, “I finished this internship with a lot of ideas and case-studies to implement in my courses to better mentor and guide my students to acquire the required skills of construction operations management, planning, and estimation. This in turn will have an impact on the larger group of students in SCU by motivating them to seek successful careers in the construction industry.”

Brad Fannin, project manager at Blach, described the benefit to contractors this way: “Having Hisham as an intern was really a mutually beneficial relationship. Blach Construction counts on construction and engineering programs at local universities to produce the future generation of talent. Having a college professor onboard working on real-life issues will benefit his course instruction, which will hopefully trickle down in the caliber of student the university produces and Blach ultimately hires.”

Dr. Reginato and Dr. Hisham Said, associate professor, Santa Clara University, faculty intern with Blach Construction Company (BCC), gave the AGC Foundation’s Faculty Internship Program high grades for the experience it provided them and the network of colleagues they had established by the end of their work.

“I imagine there are a lot of applicants to this program and if there aren’t, there should be,” said Reginato. “It is valuable at any point during your teaching life-cycle.” Reginato worked with Swinerton using 3D scanning to develop accurate as-built drawings to be used in the planning, scheduling and estimating of tenant improvements.

Dr. Said, who split his time at BCC on a construction site as a project engineer intern and in BCC’s main office as a junior

“We want to have an impact on as many students as possible by continuing the education of their professors,” said Bob Bowen, Chair of the Foundation’s Klinger Research Committee. “Our intent with our partners from the Associated Schools of Construction (ASC) is for these faculty to bring their experiences back to the classroom where they will benefit the students coming into the industry.”

The program completed its third summer in 2013, having sponsored a total of five interns since 2011. Faculty from the Wentworth Institute, Purdue and the University of Oklahoma has participated, working with AGC contractors such as Bowen Engineering, J.E. Dunn and Pepper Construction. Four new internships have been approved for the summer of 2014:

- Amr Kandil, Purdue University, Bowen Engineering
- Tarek Mahfouz, Ball State University, Barton Malow
- Sinem Mallaoglu, Michigan State University, Granger Construction
- Patrick Suermann, US Air Force Academy, Swinerton

The internships are three-way partnerships among the academic institution, an AGC contractor and the AGC Education and Research Foundation. For more information or to discuss contributions to support the Foundation’s Faculty Internship Fund, contact Melinda Patrician, patricianm@agc.org, 703-837-5342.

INDUSTRY CASE STUDIES BECOME AVAILABLE IN 2014

A team from Pittsburg State University with J.E. Dunn Construction and TD Industries, Inc. of Dallas, TX was selected for their proposal on lean construction practices for the third case study commissioned by the Foundation. The Foundation’s first case study by a team from Northern Kentucky University and Turner Construction, “Ethics in Project Planning and Execution,” is now available through the AGC bookstore. Copies of the case study may also be found at the AGC Foundation booth at the annual convention. The second case study, on the topic of bid day ethics, written by a team from the University of Arkansas in cooperation with Nabholz Construction Services, is in the final draft stage and is expected to be published this year.

DONATE NOW to the AGC Education and Research Foundation!

Help us to support the future of our industry! THERE ARE MANY WAYS TO CONTRIBUTE:

- INDIVIDUAL DONATIONS of any size are welcome. Go to www.agcfoundation.org, click on the Donate Now button and contribute online, or send a check to AGC Education and Research Foundation, 2300 Wilson Blvd. Suite 400, Arlington, VA 22201.
- ENDOW A SCHOLARSHIP FUND – with a pledge to the foundation of $25,000 or more, paid over five years or in one lump sum, you can support the future through an Endowed Scholarship Fund in your name to award annual scholarships to deserving students. To ensure that a scholarship is given each year, we recommend an endowment of $50,000 or more.
- CREATE A SPONSORED SCHOLARSHIP – If endowing a scholarship at this time seems like too big a leap, consider creating a Sponsored Scholarship, a commitment of $2,500 per year (plus a five percent administrative fee) to cover the cost of a scholarship for a student.
- CONTRIBUTE TO A DEDICATED FUND – The Foundation's Faculty Internship and Industry Case Study initiatives are supported through contributions to dedicated funds created by the Foundation. If your interest lies in one of these areas, consider a contribution to one of these innovative funds.
- PLANNED GIVING – There are many creative ways to donate to an organization dedicated to the goal of improving the construction industry for generations to come! Leave a bequest in your will; contribute a life insurance policy; deed ownership of property to the Foundation; give a gift of stock or mutual funds. Many thanks to the AGC contractors and staff who generously gave their time to interview finalists for 2013 scholarships!

Each year, AGC contractors across the country generously donate their time to interview finalists for AGC scholarships. These interviews are very important to our process of ensuring that recipients are indeed serious about their careers in the industry and will be an asset when they arrive. The response from the contractors who are asked to conduct interviews is overwhelmingly positive and even more after they meet the students, who appreciate the opportunity to interact with these industry leaders.
